State Official Says Wildcat Strikers Are Not Eligible For State Funds

STRIKERS CAUSED OWN SITUATION

By JOHN PAGET
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, July 14.—Miners who disregarded appeals to end their wildcat strikes in the anthracite and bituminous fields were notified today they were not eligible for unemployment compensation.

Secretary of Labor and Industry William H. Chesnut said he had ordered the bureau of unemployment compensation to "disallow compensation claims made for unemployment arising from the recent work stoppages in the bituminous and anthracite fields." He did not disclose, however, if claims had been received.

"I could not have taken any other course," Chesnut stated. "As a Pennsylvania official charged with the administration of unemployment compensation, I would have been remiss in my duty had I done otherwise."

Own Fault

He pointed out that the unemployment compensation law permitted payments if workers were separated from their jobs through no fault of their own.

"I hold that such unemployment as of and after May 1, 1943, is due to voluntarily leaving work without good cause," he declared.

Unofficial estimates based upon weekly production placed the loss in hard coal miners' wages at approximately $10,000,000 while operators lost more than $30,000,000 during the three walkouts. No figures were available for the bituminous fields.

"The purpose of the Pennsylvania

ALLIED FLEET JOINS ATTACKS UPON CATANIA

Not made known. But pilots returning to this base from the scene of operations reported several Sicilian cities smoking heavily as the result of attack.

In confirming capture of Augusta, Gen. Eisenhower revealed that a squadron of Allied cruisers and destroyers steamed into the harbor Monday afternoon.

Harbor Facilities Intact

They found harbor facilities virtually intact.

Everywhere in vital areas of operation, the Allied fleet is swarming into heavier action in support of land and air action against the enemy. Allied warships bombarded Axis emplacements at Porto Empedocle, chief remaining enemy bastion on the south coast, and at Ponte Olivo, both west of the areas firmly held by American troops under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

While admitting increased U-boat warfare, Gen. Eisenhower's announcement said that Allied counter-moves had been successful "and are certain to bring discomfort to the enemy."

This was conservative confirmation of a simultaneous broadcast by the Algiers radio which said:

Many Axis Troops Sunk

"A great number of Axis troops and fantastic quantities of equipment have been sent to the bottom of the Messina Straits."

The communiqué disclosed virtual elimination of the 206th Italian coastal division whose commander, Gen. Davetti, was captured yesterday.

The division, Gen. Eisenhower said, "now has been all but eliminated from the fighting along the southeast coast."

Naval bombardment at the Catania airfield and elsewhere was described as accurate and effective.

There was undiminished Allied air activity against Axis garrisons and troops in Sicily.

Axis bombers from North Africa and the Middle East slashed heavily at targets both on the island of Sicily and the Italian mainland. Small Allied surface vessels clashed with enemy motor-torpedo boats in the Messina Straits and inflicted considerable damage.

No Heavy Counter Move

Gen. Eisenhower reported that Axis prisoners taken now number "some thousands."

Nowhere is there yet any sign of a counter Axis counter-offensive. The communiqué said:

"The navy's main task of supporting the army by commanding the sea and disembarking troops and their supplies continues."

"Throughout these operations, American and other Allied warships have rendered valuable support to the troops on shore by engaging and routing formations, tank columns and transport behind Gela and elsewhere. Targets included the airfields at Ponte Olivo and Porto Empedocle."

"A British and Greek destroyer entered the Port of Augusta at 1900 hours (4 P. M.) on July 12. These ships assisted materially in the capture of the town. Naval bombardment was described by the army as both accurate and timely."

"The airfield at Catania was bombed from the sea in the early hours of July 13."

"It was reported the swells on some of the more exposed beaches have subsided. There were some enemy bombing attacks on beaches during the work in progress. Disembarkation proceeds smoothly."

Division Eliminated

"The 206th Italian division, whose commander, General Davetti, was reported captured yesterday, now has been all but eliminated from the fighting along the southeastern Sicilian coast."

"There are signs of increased U-boat activities throughout the area, but countermeasures have been highly successful and disheartening to the enemy."

"Activity on the part of mine-sweepers and light coastal forces continues, and the efforts of all have been successful. On the night of July 12-13, one of our flotillas of MTBs operating in the Straits of Messina engaged two E-boats which were set ablaze and driven ashore. A third E-boat was damaged but managed to escape."

"During our operations yesterday contact was made between American and Canadian forces. They furthered their general advance in all sectors, including the capture of Augusta with its port facilities undamaged and the capture of Ragusa and Naro."

"Some thousands of prisoners have now been taken."

"The work of administrative units of operations of this nature as a ceaseless flow of vehicles, ammunition and stores is being maintained through the ports and over the beaches."

Ground Combat

Bomber and fighter pilots returning to this advanced base from the battlefield reported active ground combat at numerous points "many miles" inland from the initial beachheads and confirmed indications that the whole Allied line from Piacenza on the south coast to the southern reaches of Catania on the east is being rolled forward.

It was as though a giant curtain was being raised on the island, with each passing hour showing new areas of towns, roads, villages and mountains occupied and liberated while on the whole arc-like front of more than 100 miles Allied troops are being massed and multiplied for the major conflict expected to develop shortly.

These observers reported also that Allied forces now are operating from captured advanced landing grounds in Sicily, enabling intensification of the aerial assaults which up to now have prevented the enemy from consolidating for full-scale counterattack.

Trucks Destroyed

The weight of aerial assault is growing steadily as fighter planes are able to operate in close support of frontline troops. Successes of previous days were duplicated yesterday, when Allied air units destroyed at least 160 enemy trucks, six locomotives and twenty-five freight cars.

In the words of an official spokesman at this base, all were "reduced to junk." Their replacement will be impossible so long as Allied Air forces control the over-water routes to Sicily from the Italian mainland and the neighboring islands of Sardinia and Corsica.

Reinforcement of the Allied armies continues without let-up. New troops, heavy gun tanks and supplies are being poured into all captured ports. Enemy surrender of Augusta and Syracuse without damaging harbor installations has greatly facilitated this task.

Farewell services for Carl J. Forsberg, husband of Mrs. Mitchell Forsberg, were held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Reynolds, Pulaski road, with Rev. W. The Forsberg family is leaving to take up residence in Portland, Ore. They were formerly missionaries to Sweden and Denmark and Mr. Forsberg was pastor of the local congregation for a number of years. The family has served the church faithfully in various offices.

Members of the church presented the family with a number of nice gifts. Afterwards, lunch was served by the ladies of the church.

GROUND FORCES PRESS CLOSER TO JAP MUNDA BASE

New Guinea, and 21 tons were rained on the nearby stronghold at Lae.

Today's communiqué confirmed the Allied victory in the second battle of Kula Gulf, where American warships sank a Japanese cruiser and three destroyers and possibly sank two additional destroyers.

The beleaguered Jap garrison at Munda. The bulletin said the Nipponese task force was fleeing northward after breaking off the engagement.

Ground Forces Advance

While Allied ground forces continued the advance on Munda, four Allied fighters intercepted 18 enemy dive-bombers and 10 Zeros at nearby Langsdale Point, forced the bombers to jettison their bombs harmlessly and shot down four of the Zeros. Only one Allied plane was lost in the battle.

Ground force battling the Japs at Enogai Inlet, New Georgia Island, killed 159 enemy troops, wounded many others and captured much valuable equipment.

Heavy bombers assaulted the Vila airdrome on Kolombangara Island, north of New Georgia, after dark with unobserved results, and others hurled 24 tons of high explosives on the Ballale airdrome in the Buinifai area of Bougainville Island to the northwest, starting many fires.

The latest aerial assault on Lae and Salamaua in New Guinea wrought additional heavy damage.

'NON-STOP' AIR RAIDS ON SICILY

Inland aided by relentless bombing of key-points, roads, communications and enemy concentrations.

There is every reason to hope for continued operational successes. Allied forces from now on will benefit from quick consolidation of their holdings in such vital areas as Syracuse, Augusta and Ragusa.

Another great advantage has been the friendly reception accorded by the native populace and the half-hearted fight put up by native Sicilians.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Fruehstorfer Funeral Time

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Fruehstorfer, rear Frank avenue, will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence with Rev. R. D. Bomer, pastor of Bethel United Brethren church, in charge. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

SENATOR O'DANIEL, OF TEXAS, IS GUEST HERE

rationed. Our people are solidly back of the war effort and they are complying with the ration orders, but they still think they are foolish. As a member of an investigating committee in the Senate it was my observation that the oil and gas situation comes out of an attempt by some major oil companies to control the field and drive out the little fellow.

We asked Ralph Davis, who is Mr. Loe's assistant why oil and gasoline couldn't be shipped by tank cars from the west and he said it couldn't be done and still be an oil man. It could be done and it is being done. Down our way the boys over in Houston shipped a tanker of gasoline to New York some months ago and found they couldn't even sell it.

"What are the possibilities of Texas going Republican next year?" "That all depends upon the candidates," said he. "Our people are dissatisfied with the domestic policies of the administration. Texas has more men in service in this war than any other state."

"If it is a fact that the National Youth Administration did a fairly good job of training men and women for industry in the past eight months, why was it abolished by the Congress?"

"Well," he replied, "New Deal agency has to be pretty bad before Congress abolishes it. Perhaps the NYA did a good job recently in training men and women but industries informed us that they would sooner have the men and women put into industry before the NYA spoiled them. After all this manufactured one it could be made more apparent if we had a twenty hour week instead of a forty. Now, of course it is up to 48 hours but the last eight hours are at time and a half, at the taxpayers' expense. It is my observation we could eliminate most of the New Deal agencies," said he.

Senator O'Daniel repeated he was not a politician. "I'm just old fashioned enough to believe we should operate this country under the Constitution. Down in Washington there are a lot of people who seem to have other ideas."

Senator O'Daniel was born at Malta, O., and expects to visit a lot of relatives in Ohio before returning to Texas. In his own words "I reckon a lot of Ohio is peopled with my relatives."

Sen. O'Daniel left the city on his trip to Ohio shortly before noon. Before leaving with Mrs. O'Daniel he expressed himself upon the coming of the Caspian hotel. "We are delighted with the comforts and conveniences of this hotel," said he. "We did not know you had such a modern hotel here and our stay has been a most pleasant one."

And then as he stepped into his automobile, "Pennsylvania is a great state. We have been amazed at your gorgeous scenery, your beautiful industry, your natural resources. If your brother, you should come to Texas. We have everything. Come down some time and visit us."

That sounds to us like a four star idea.

MORE AXIS SHIPS ARE DESTROYED

hours after other Allied fliers blasted two other supply ships and as many destroyers in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

Forty-two enemy planes were shot down, 11 by night fighters, against a loss of only seven Allied aircraft, the communiqué revealed.

American and British fliers attacked Axis airfields at Milo and Catania, hitting at enemy dromes from which planes may strike with comparative ease at advancing Allied ground forces. Other communication centers also were bombed and strafed, as were Axis troop columns. During these attacks, a large number of enemy vehicles were destroyed.

Undisclosed targets on southern Italy were blasted during the day's operations, the communiqué added.

standstill in the region surrounding the rail city of Kursk, artillery and mortar batteries fired volley after volley into the opposing lines, while reconnaissance patrols of each side exchanged blows. Small-scale raids also occurred as both the Reds and the Nazis sought vital information.

Near Belgorod, however, large-scale engagements were fought throughout the night with "the Germans striving to achieve success at any price." Russian counterattacks drove the enemy out of several key positions and inflicted losses in both manpower and equipment which were described officially as "heavy."

Troop-laden trucks were blasted to bits, guns and tanks destroyed and pillboxes gutted as the Russians continued to grind down the German striking power. In one locality the Nazis, disregarding their losses, managed to fight their way into a small village which they held for several hours. Counter-attacking Soviet troops, however, then hurled the enemy from the village, killing 400 officers and men and capturing large stocks of booty.

Japan's actions in sending two naval forces into the Kula Gulf bottleneck within a week was seen as an indication of its anxiety to reinforce Vila and probably Munda. Informed observers, however, do not believe that Munda, key Nipponese air base on New Georgia Island, now can receive any material bolstering.

with an equally strong Japanese armada. The enemy warships were surprised shortly after midnight Monday as they trailed out of the narrow Kula Gulf entrance.

The flotilla was divided into two groups, these sources revealed. The first consisted of a light cruiser and five destroyers and the second of approximately four destroyers. The cruiser and three destroyers definitely were sunk and there is reason to believe that the two other ships in the first group also were destroyed. Vessels in the second group also were believed damaged.

The two phases of the brief battle overlapped, but through it all the Allies escaped with but slight damage.

Informed observers, however, do not believe that Munda, key Nipponese air base on New Georgia Island, now can receive any material bolstering.

NO ARMISTICE THIS TIME

TUESDAY marked the 584th day of American participation in World War II.

The 584th day after the United States entered World War I was Armistice Day.

In the period we took to help push World War I to a victorious conclusion we have, this time, just begun to fight. The beginning of the end, as the president says, has arrived with the invasion of Sicily. But how long it will take to reach the end no one can foretell.

Conditions faced by our forces are greatly different today than they were a quarter of a century ago. Then the battle front was virtually static in France. Today it is world-wide. We have a front in the Pacific that is about 10,000 miles long, from the Aleutians around to Burma, and in the European theater about 4,000 miles, from North Cape to Suez.

More is required to win this war than the last; more of everything. We are confident we have what it will take. However, many days shall be added to the 584 and more already checked off, no matter how arduous the struggle ahead, we shall not falter until the day of victory.

When that comes, it may be no Armistice Day, marking a truce with the enemy, but a day of unconditional surrender, a day to mark the beginning of a real, not an illusory peace.

TEST FOR THE TANK

The bloody contest now raging up and down the steppes of central Russia will determine whether the tank still has a paramount place in war. In their earlier successes the Nazis used it, in combination with the dive bomber, to terrorize the opposition.

Later, when opposing armies could no longer be terrorized, the tank was still useful in spearheading infantry. Now there are several new methods of dealing with tanks, most of them centering in swift moving big guns called tank destroyers. Smaller weapons like the bazooka are also effective.

The Russians are reported to have large numbers of tank destroyers. They are new and just as effective as the American type which the British used to force Rommel into his long retreat from Egypt to Tunisia.

If the Nazi tank gamble fails, Allied observers estimate that Russia has much the better chance on the eastern front. With American and British contributions, Russia holds an approximate air parity with the Nazis. The Red armies have more trained reserves easily accessible. It was these Russian reserves which turned the tide in each of the two previous offensives by the invaders.

Directly to the rear of the Russian battle lines the wheat harvest is in full swing. Russia's real fight is for continuance of adequate supplies. Good harvest and the shorter supply lines which the Allies are blasting out of the Mediterranean will determine whether larger quantities of supplies can be dispatched to the Muscovites.

THE WAR IN SICILY

Sicily is the last Axis bastion preventing the Allies from invading continental Europe. The battles now being fought on the slopes and in the mountains of the island which lies from three to ten miles across the Strait of Messina from Italy, can have only one result—Allied victory and the opening of southern Italy to invasion.

Allied men and weapons of war continue to pour into Sicily and will be dispatched in a steady stream until the last Germans and Italians have been killed or captured. In an operation of the size of this—it was the largest invasion force ever landed on any coast—casualties on both sides undoubtedly will be heavy.

But news that the Allies had captured or put out of commission all Axis airfields on the island early in the fighting left no doubt as to the course of the fighting. With control of their air and the seas undisputed, the Allies cannot lose.

The offensive may broaden as it develops. Other Axis strongholds in the Mediterranean—Sardinia and Corsica to the northwest, the Dodecanese Islands and Crete to the east—are so situated geographically as to make possible a giant pincers on the underbelly of the Axis.

But when Sicily has been conquered by the Allies, Mussolini's homeland will be within range of their fighter planes, operating from scores of airfields, just as it already has been within bombing range. The invasion finds Hitler deeply embroiled in his Russian offensive. Axis disaster on either front will be of serious moment to der fuhrer.

The invasion has added importance in that it will disclose how staunchly the Italians will fight the Allies. If they break now as they broke in North Africa and Pantelleria, the game will be up for Mussolini.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T UPSET CHILD'S ROUTINE

When the family moves, the growing children over two or three are usually put at a big disadvantage. The lot and runabout have been removed from old playmates and the teen-aged youth from old friends. For the child fearful of bullies, there are new dreads, since the bully likes especially to torment the newcomer.

In selecting a new home, parents with children ought to take all these matters into account. Unfortunately, however, many families cannot easily choose, especially in the overcrowded defense areas.

In any event, the parents should try very hard to understand the problems which face their child or children in the new community and do their utmost to help these children as much as possible to adapt themselves. Often it will require increased patience and consideration.

Children And New Friends

A child who has learned to get along well with other children and whose parents have also learned to be tactful with neighbor children and their parents in most fortunate. How we parents and our children adapt ourselves in a new community will depend pretty largely on how well we adapted ourselves in the old.

Trained to be self-reliant and considerate of the rights of others, your child in the new home should be well fitted to have you welcome other children of the new community to your home. In any neighborhood, our success at influencing children who come to our home to act well requires that our own children first act well. If our child is inclined to engage in roughhouse at home he will be more boisterous when playmates join him there and they will be, too.

The New School

The school-age child who has moved may have a hard time adapting himself to the ways of the new school and to his studies there. Work in his grade may be far too hard for him even though it had not been in the old school. If he had lagged in one or more subjects where he attended school before, his discouragement may mount rapidly at the new one.

His parents should strive to get acquainted with his school and cooperate with his teachers, being careful to win their friendship. Teachers also need to be very considerate of the child who has just moved to the school district. The more so if he moves at some time after the term has started. Looking for a way to prove patriotic, teachers and parents of children who have moved have a big opportunity to prove their understanding, insight and skill at helping the child fit into the new school and community.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My child 26 months old has taken water and orange juice from a cup for a long while but refuses milk from a cup.

A. Patiently offer him milk from a cup being careful not to stir up strong resistance in him. Failing in this, just refuse the bottle and, if necessary, cut down or entirely refuse, other foods until he gets hungry enough to take the milk from the cup. With your next baby, begin as early as six months by offering him the milk in a cup and patiently and calmly keep at it without ever irritating him until he responds favorably.

Q. My son twelve years old won't help me on the lawn or in the garden without a lot of argument which takes more energy than to do the work myself.

A. Quit arguing. Make clear the job he must do in the fewest possible words. If he fails just once, make him sit doing nothing near where you are working, for exactly an hour. Continue this procedure for as many days as necessary. My bulletin, "Training Child to Help at Home," may be had in the usual way.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

(International News Service Staff Writer)
Well with congress on vacation the CIO has come up with the germ of a red hot idea.

The labor group suggests "invite your congressman to a good old American-style town meeting" and discuss his record. "If it's been bad? Tell him so; if it's been good, tell him that and urge him on."

Of course the CIO idea is for the local unions to stage the meetings.

Wouldn't it be a better idea to have the campaign groups that put over the congressman stage the meetings?

Get the same boys together who sold the candidate to the voters (if you can find them now) and let them be proud of their boy. Let them stage the big welcome home session.

And any congressman will be glad to meet the voters. He was glad to meet them when he was campaigning, wasn't he? He was never too busy to make a speech or explain his policies then was he?

So all right. So give him the platform again, and give him his head and let him talk. And then ask questions.

PUT ON THE PAN

The toastmaster had a grudge against the speaker he was called on to introduce, so he put it this way: "Ladies and gentlemen: The man who is to speak to you has been accused of being two-faced. I plead with you not to believe this dastardly lie about him. If he were two-faced it is a cinch that he would wear the other one."

A farmer said to a neighbor, "Joe, what was going on over at Si's place yesterday? Sounded like an explosion of some kind."

Joe: "Ho, yes that was Si's place rooster. Si was feeding the hens that 'lay or bust' feed and the rooster ate a lot of it."

"Miriam, I hear you had two young men here last night."

"Well, ma'am, look how long the evenings are for only one."

The employer, summoned before a draft board to explain why he had requested deferment for a young man not on his pay roll, said: "That lad is the best craps shooter in the county. He cleans out my employees every Saturday night, and so they all come back to work on Monday."

Visitor: "Are your father and mother in?"

Skippy: "They was in, but they is out."

Visitor: "They was in. They is out! Where's your grammar?"

Skippy: "She's upstairs."

And that, somehow, reminds us of the man in the small-town theater. The manager came on stage and said, "Is Mr. Higginbotham in the house? He's wanted at home. His house is on fire."

And a fellow in the 11th row leaped up and raced out. But while running down the street he stopped and exclaimed:

"What am I running for? My name ain't Higginbotham."

SEATING GUESTS AT WEDDING BREAKFAST

"At a sit-down wedding breakfast, at which all guests will be at one large table, how should they be seated? There will be a maid of honor, three bridesmaids, three ushers and a few guests, in addition to my parents and the groom's at an enormous rectangular table."

Mary Jane.

Answer: "At the head of the table should be the bride with the groom at her left (seated side by side). To the groom's left should be the maid-of-honor; to the bride's right, the best man. To the right of the best man, should be a bridesmaid, beside whom should be an usher and then another bridesmaid. On the other side, to the left of the maid-of-honor should be an usher. Next to whom a bridesmaid should be seated and then an usher."

At the other end, opposite the bride and groom, should be the groom's mother with the bride's father to her left. To the right of the groom's mother should be the bride's mother, next to whom the bride's mother and on the other side of her the groom's father. To the left of the bride's father should be the wife of the clergyman. If the clergyman and his wife are not invited to the wedding, choose elderly relatives to sit in the places I have appointed for them in this list. Other relatives and friends should be seated toward the center of the table with no two men nor two women seated together, if possible. Usually, but not necessarily, there is a separate bride's table, where the entire bride party is seated and another table for the families and friends.

Question: Please advise me if it is considered improper or in bad taste to give a shower for a dear friend who has been divorced and is to remarry? Only her very close friends are to be invited.—C. J.

Answer: Ordinarily, a divorcee is married without much fanfare, but there is no reason why her very close friends may not shower her with gifts before her second marriage.

NOT SO DUMB

A full-blooded Pima Indian out in Arizona needed some cash, so he went to a banker and asked about a loan.

"How much do you need?" asked the banker.

"Me want $200."

"For how long?"

"Maybe two weeks; maybe two months."

"And what security have you?"

"Me got 200 horses."

This seemed sufficient security, and the loan was made.

A short time afterward the Indian came into the bank with $2,200 cash, paid off the note and started to leave with the rest of his roll.

"Why not let us take care of that money for you?" asked the banker.

The old Indian's mind flew back to the day when he wanted $200, and looking the banker straight in the eye, he solemnly asked: "How many horses you got?"

You can't take a Sunday afternoon drive, but you can sit at home and look at the back end of a car and scarcely notice the difference.

Jerry—Shucks, we kept right on goin'. That widder knew the way.

Lady patient: "Oh doctor. Do you see anything on my tongue?"

Doctor: "No, ma'am, you never expect to find any grass growing on a race track."

Spanish Government Flops To Allies
Franco No Longer Ace Up Axis Sleeve
New World Folk Wooded By El Caudillo

WASHINGTON, July 14 — The Axis press realizes now that Spain's government has flopped entirely over to sympathy with the United Nations. The Spanish people generally have been, all along, first-rate democrats, or even farther to the leftward. Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Madrid's "El Caudillo," Spanish equivalent to "Der Fuehrer" or "Il Duce," started off, however, as a Nazi or a Fascist, equivalent to a Nazi or a Fascist. First indications of his change in policy arrived to the accompaniment of news that he is maneuvering for a restoration of his country's former monarchy, under Prince Juan of Bourbon, third son of the late, and deposed King Alfonso, in exile at present in Switzerland.

The prince himself has a reputation as a democrat. This seems queer in the case of a descendant of the ultra-royal Bourbon family. Nevertheless, it is a fact that, informed of Generalissimo Franco's overtures, he promptly announced that he would not consider them on any basis that made him governmentally inferior to El Caudillo.

Maybe Juan simply had been reading the signs of the times. Or maybe he had learned a lesson from his own father's dethronement. Anyway, in response to hints from the previously pro-Axis generalissimo, he took a distinctly anti-Axis attitude.

And the point is that the generalissimo promptly fell for it. Franco appears willing to accept Juan on the latter's terms, in a subordinate position.

This naturally makes the Axis publicity managers hot under the collar.

And it is, indeed, a vicious jab at them—not so much militarily, but as an item of morale, which figures quite a lot for the immediate present.

It is like a split in the near-inevitable ones.

Spain, though, is a geographic spot of considerable material advantage in the present conflict. It is nicely situated as the basis for a thrust into Axis territory (through France) and into Axis waters (by way of the Mediterranean).

Now, how did Caudillo Franco happen to get out of the ace, he did, versus the Axis powers?

Well, in Spain itself popular sentiment is, as said above, democratic. The generalissimo squeaked by with a narrow majority.

Franco thought Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini would win in a walk. Adolf has not done it. Benito has been a much worse fizzle. Adolf is hated as a tyrant. Benito is despised as an extremely sour lemon.

The conquered countries are all in rebellion.

Next thing? Latin America! We have this side of the world sewed up. It includes Spanish—and Portuguese—if you so group them.

Our New-Worldlings are virtually all pro-United States.

Of course, Argentina has been too neutral to suit Washington and governments of other United Nations.

Generally speaking, though, Latin America has been too conspicuously anti-Axis not to have impressed a Spanish dictator.

Like Caudillo Franco, obviously he arrived finally at the conclusion that his bread was buttered more on the side of the democracies than that of the totalitarians. The same idea might have occurred to Duce Mussolini, if he had thought about it earlier, but El Caudillo was more deliberately judicious.

Franco has not yet had quite the nerve to come out wholeheartedly against the Nazis, but he has come close enough to it to promise a complete switch democracy-ward as soon as he is certain of the war's impending outcome.

Naturally, Fuehrer Hitler's mouthpieces are giving him hades.

The theme is that Adolf helped HIM when Franco was having his troubles with the Spanish republicans; now he is as lukewarm as it is imaginable toward the Axis.

At that, it is not ingratitude. It is self-interest. Franco has decided that the Axis is licked, and is anxious to get in—as safely as he can—under cover.

And, believe me, Peter (that's his name) yelled.

The hostess came running, the maid came running.

The maid picked him up, held him and crooned to him.

Peter yelled louder than ever. He yelled so loud that everybody knew he wasn't really hurt.

The more the maid tried to mollify him, the more he howled.

Then he saw his mother. He stopped crying, grinned all over his face, stretched out his little arms to her and said: "Da. Da."

She took him, smothered him with kisses and, strangely enough, started to cry.

She told me the story this morning. Her eyes were shining.

"Do you know, that little gesture of his reminded me for all the nine months of worry and work" she said.

"I could tell instinctively that when he is in trouble, he wants nobody else but me."

"What more can any mother ask?"

Being a man, a mother's love is just a bit too deep for me to understand.

But in what this mother said lies the love that passeth all understanding.

"When he is in trouble, he wants nobody else

Believe New State Draft Director Will Be Colonel Mellon

Governor Martin Refuses Comment On Selective Service Appointment

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 14.—Gov. Edward Martin said Tuesday that a director of Selective Service in Pennsylvania will be named "during the summer" and indicated that the state's acting director, Lt. Col. George H. Hafer, would become deputy.

It was believed that the directorship would go to Col. Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, nephew of former U. S. Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon. Mellon is stationed in Boston, where it is reported he is taking an indoctrination course to prepare him for duty as Pennsylvania's Selective Service director.

The governor refused to comment on Mellon, stating that "there isn't anything to announce about a director of Selective Service. Colonel Hafer is doing a magnificent job, although when he took the position it was understood that a director would be named during the summer, but the announcement of an appointment isn't yet ready to be made."

Hafer succeeded acting Director Col. Benjamin F. Evans who was called to Washington Selective Service headquarters. Prior to Evans, Pennsylvania's draft organization was directed by Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of LaPayette college.

FEAR WASTE OF POTATOES

Officials Urge People To Buy
Spuds, Keep Them In Garden

COLUMBUS, O., July 14.—Rapid wartime changes in the food situation are emphasized by the advice of the Food Distribution Administration to consumers to buy potatoes which are plentiful now and to permit the potatoes in home gardens to stay there while they gain size.

Dale E. Rogers, chief of the market reports division in Chicago said 371 carloads of potatoes arrived on the Chicago market June 28 from North Carolina, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas and added that 700 more carloads were in transit.

Expect Considerable Waste
Authorities say there will be a considerable waste of food if early potatoes available now are not consumed. Storage facilities are not adequate to hold the crop for any considerable period and potatoes do not stand storage well in warm weather.

Rogers pointed out that many home gardeners take pride in beating their neighbors in gathering potatoes from their gardens, so many are dug when they are small. The premature harvest will prevent the homegrown stock from becoming larger and will lessen the demand for the plentiful supplies of new potatoes now on the market.

Many homemakers who substituted other vegetables for potatoes in the recent period of scarcity have failed to return to potatoes since they have become plentiful. Nutrition specialists recommend the serving of potatoes once a day.

New Stockpiling Agency Rumors Are Still Unconfirmed

Roosevelt Reported To Be Planning New Agency To Rebuke Wallace, Jones

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—White House Secretary Stephen T. Early Tuesday refused to comment on reports that President Roosevelt would set up a new organization replacing both the Board of Economic Warfare, and the RFC in the stockpiling of critical war materials.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, who is head of the BEW and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, head of the RFC recently engaged in a public controversy over the stockpiling program. Wallace accused Jones of obstructing the BEW plans, while Jones accused Wallace of uttering falsehoods.

Reports have circulated in Washington that Mr. Roosevelt, to rebuke both Wallace and Jones, would set up a completely new agency to handle the purchase of critical war materials. Asked about the reports, Early replied:

"There is nothing I can say about them."

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
OTTAWA.—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King: "The battle of Europe is now joined. It must be fought to a finish. It will be a hard fight. It will be a long fight."

WASHINGTON.—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan calls for a war cabinet: "The palace guard has got to be demobilized soon."

NEW YORK.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor: "Six million members of the A. F. of L. have been penalized and insulted by the action of the congress in passing the Smith-Connally bill."

THIS WAS THE QUESTION the U. S. Navy asked us on February 5, 1942.

Our answer, "We ought to be able to . . . How soon can we see one?"

With the coming of the war these gyrocompasses were needed in large quantity to equip the ships of our rapidly expanding Navy and Merchant Marine. They had never been built in quantity production.

To save time one of the big thirteen hundred pound Sperry Gyro-Compasses was sent from

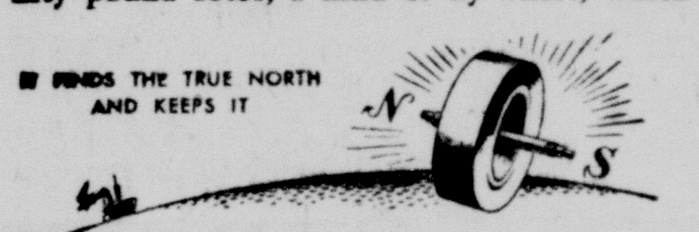

IT CAME OVERNIGHT, FROM BROOKLYN TO DETROIT BY PASSENGER TRAIN

Brooklyn to Detroit by fast passenger train. It was in our hands next morning and we took it apart for study, piece by piece.

The gyro-compass is an intricate, scientific instrument of navigation which unerringly points (and holds) true North. It is not influenced by electrical or magnetic disturbances that affect the ordinary compass.

The heart of the gyro-compass is its large fifty pound rotor, a kind of fly-wheel, which is spun at the rate of six thousand revolutions a minute by its own in-built electric motor.

We found the compass to contain over ten thousand mechanical parts, with delicate electrical arrangements whereby the East-West rotation of the world itself, and the constant forces of gravity, are harnessed and used for direction and control of the spinning rotor.

Promptly we sent men of wide experience in precision manufacture, electrical engineering and mechanical processes to Brooklyn,

New York, where they studied at first hand the technical construction and assembly of this intricate mechanism. They were greatly aided in these studies by the Sperry Gyroscope Company, Inc., long experienced in gyro-compass manufacture.

Study of the drawings, specifications and the parts of the compass, helped us decide which parts we would manufacture ourselves and which we would sub-contract to other companies. Our master mechanics made plans for more than five thousand special tools and fixtures. Our planning department began to order production material. We made the final selections of men from our organization whose abilities clearly fitted them for supervision of the many tasks of gyro-compass manufacture. We placed our first orders among three hundred and fifty subcontractors.

While these things were going on we began to build two complete compasses without waiting for completion of our regular production facilities. By the time these jobs were finished our manufacturing arrangements were made and the quantity production of gyro-compasses actually began.

In our production program we were guided by the same principles that we had used successfully in the building of cars and trucks. We believe that if each individual part of the machine (however intricate) is made right, and the assemblies of the parts are right, the finished product cannot help but be right.

In manufacturing the gyro-compass all of the thousands of big and little parts undergo the most rigorous test and inspection. They must always register a perfect score in their successive balance and precision trials.

When a compass is completed it is given its final test on a special machine which accurately duplicates the roll, pitch, and yaw of a vessel navigating a very rough sea. When this test is concluded, and the final adjustments are made, the compass is ready for immediate installation on the ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine.

This very rapid calendar of events is, of course, our most gratifying answer to the question asked us by the Navy on Feb. 5, 1942,—"Can You People Make Gyro-Compasses?"

It gives us something of a thrill to know that for many months now proud new ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine are going to sea guided by Sperry Gyro-Compasses of our manufacture,—and that we have been able to master the art of gyro-compass making from a production background concerned largely with the engineering and building of fine motor cars and trucks.

Will Of Suicides Ordered By State Court For Probate

Probate Previously Contested
Because Will Written On Separate Sheets Of Paper

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—A will in the handwriting of Joseph H. Covington and his wife, Helen, declared to have committed suicide in the kitchen of their home near Eddystone, was ordered by the state supreme court Tuesday to be accepted for probate by the register of wills of Delaware County.

The Covingtons were found dead on last October 27. While the bodies were being removed by police a sealed envelope was found on the kitchen table. It contained three sheets of paper, testamentary in character and signed with the names of the two decedents. The purported will, dated two days before the bodies were found, disposed of two pieces of realty, diamond rings and other jewelry and also disposed of $7,000 life insurance proceeds.

A contest against the probate was made on the grounds that the three sheets of paper, bill heads used by Covington in his plumbing business, were physically disconnected to each other and because the signatures were only on one sheet. The Delaware County Orphans' Court ordered the register of wills to refuse to probate the three sheets as the will of the decedents. Chief Justice George W. Maxey in the highest court reverses the action of the Delaware County court and directs that the three sheets of paper be probated. Justice Horace Stern wrote a separate concurring opinion.

The South African government has been spending about $10,000,000 annually to stop locust invasion.

Japan Anxious To Exchange Civilian Prisoners Of War

(International News Service)

DENVER, July 14.—Japan is anxious to exchange American civilians seized in Tokyo after Pearl Harbor for alien Japanese now held in this country, it was disclosed in Denver Tuesday by Robert W. Frazee, assistant chairman of the employment division of the war relocation authority.

Frazee said the Japanese government has submitted a list of individuals most wanted back in Japan. Most of the names on the list, he said, are those of doctors, technical men and business men "who might be able to give valuable information."

"The Japanese are very cagey," said Frazee. They also want to take back some whom they apparently want to "give the works to."

"But many of those on the lists have told us they have no desire to return to Japan."

Licata Captured With Loss Of Only Four Allied Men

Naval Cooperation Is Praised; Unloading Was Like Detroit Assembly Line

By DANIEL DE LUCE
(Representing Combined U.S. Press)
(Distributed by International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 14.—American forces landed and captured the Sicilian town of Licata with more than 300 prisoners at a cost of four dead, Herbert White, American photographer operating for the War-time Photographic Pool, reported.

"Boy! Our American warships were crackjacks—they knocked out every pillbox ashore! The grizzled unshaven cameraman exclaimed as he came back tired but happy to an African port.

"The infantry landed craft started for the beach at about 2:45 a.m. and our navy poured it on each pillbox that tried to get tough. I would see a flash from a shore gun and immediately naval shells would start whistling over my head and smash the enemy into silence.

"Enemy bombers came over in the darkness, dropping flares before they let go with bombs, but they didn't hit a thing.

"After daylight I went ashore to see the equipment unloaded from my landing ship on tanks and it was a pretty exhibition of efficiency to see loads of artillery and vehicles and supplies moving from sea to land like an assembly line in a Detroit factory.

"No enemy planes bothered us from dawn until about 1 p.m. when three bombers came over and did a very poor job. They missed with everything they dropped.

"Licata is built on a rolling hill to our flank and our infantry went into it in a jiffy. A battery or two in town and a railroad battery behind a hill finally decided to do a little fighting, so our warships cracked down again. They plastered those Italian and that was that."

Urges Roosevelt To Make Fireside Chats To Nation

Senator Believes Regular Reports Would Eliminate Confusion On Home Front

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 14.—Sen. George Radcliffe (D) of Md., left a conference with President Roosevelt Tuesday to announce he had urged the nation's chief executive to make some radio "fireside chats" to eliminate confusion on the home front.

The senator, a former business associate of Mr. Roosevelt, and manager of the Roosevelt campaign in Maryland during the presidential election years, said the president gave no indication whether he would accept the advice to go on the air.

"But the president certainly wasn't combative to the idea," Radcliffe added.

Like Churchill, Radcliffe continued, "He makes regular reports on affairs to the public through the radio. Mr. Roosevelt would have a tremendous audience. He could tell the people what is going on.

"Just because two departments scrap in Washington, the people think that is all that is going on. But our war effort has made great strides at home. Just look at production. The time is ripe for the president to speak out."

AROUND CITY HALL

On again, off again. That appears to be the situation as concerns excavations here. Years ago when Wilmington avenue was termed the Avenue de Bumps because excavations were not filled properly a hue and cry was raised and years later the city took the task of refilling excavations and charging the cost to utilities and firms. More recently the city ordered that before any excavation could be made in a state highway continuation a permit would have to come from the state highway department (except in emergency). An ordinance has now been introduced shelving the rule. Henceforth the city will require a deposit to guarantee the payment of the city doing the work.

Dogs are still running the streets despite the threat of being shot by police. . . . City employees are prohibited from using municipal cars for non-city purposes. . . . Persons engaged in handling foodstuffs and beverages are still being examined at the city health bureau. . . . Owen Fox, city forester has the Public Square flower beds, shrubbery and lawns looking swell. . . . Any person caught trampling the growth down should be fined.

It is not believed that the sale of the Shenango Valley Transportation company affects their franchise rights. Suits brought prior to the sale have not yet been decided. One concerns the regulation of the buses by the city and the cost thereof charged against the company. . . . Police have not yet solved the mystery of the supposed "half man half beast". Could it have been a defective who was peeping and crawled away from the car?

Although some people cannot get enough gas to earn a few extra dollars, others waste gas by speeding and there is no worse speedway than Highland avenue according to reports. Threats will not stop maniacs.

Murder-Suicide In Washington Is Due To Jealousy

Married Man And Young Government Employee Found Dead Of Bullet Wounds

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 14.—A married man's jealousy of the woman with whom he was going was attributed by police today as the reason for the murder-suicide shooting here of Rosemary Sidley, 31, government employee, and William Knox Chandler, formerly of Nashville, Tenn.

Chandler, who lived in nearby Clinton, Md., with his wife and two children, shot the Sidley woman fatally and then turned the gun on himself in the young woman's apartment, police said.

Elizabeth McGuire, a roomer in the house where the Sidley woman lived, told police Chandler called there last night about 10:30 p.m., and the three sat talking. A few minutes after she left the room, Miss McGuire said, she heard shots and found the Sidley woman, a lighted cigarette still in her hand, dead from a bullet through the chest. Chandler was shot through the head, a pistol lying beside his body.

Both had worked together in the office of Strategic Services here and police said Chandler and the dead woman frequently attended parties together.

Pvt. J. L. Martin Dies In Accident In South Pacific

News of the death of their son, Private James L. Martin, was received by Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Granis of Beaver Falls, formerly of New Castle, in a telegram from the Navy Department. Private Martin, a member of the United States Marine Corps, met his death as the result of an accidental gunshot wound received at his base in the South Pacific Area.

Born and raised in New Castle, Private Martin was well-known here; he had moved with his family to Beaver Falls four years ago. In August, 1942, when he was 17 years old, he enlisted in the Marine Corps, completed recruit training, and had been overseas for two months at the time of his death.

The government telegram stated that he would be buried at the South Pacific post, and that a letter would follow, giving details. It has not yet been received.

Questionnaire For Vacation Trips For Motorists Ready

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 14.—The OPA has made public the questionnaire which motorists must fill out in requesting permission to make a round trip vacation drive and revealed that the question of "adequate alternate transportation" will be decided by the local ration boards.

Permission to drive on one round trip for vacations in the eastern gasoline shortage area was granted last week by OPA-Czar Prentiss Brown, if there were no "alternate" means of making the trip.

The forms, made public today, require that the applicant identify his motor vehicle, state the approximate starting point and destination of his vacation trip and the dates when he will leave and return. The form also requires that the motorists state his speedometer readings at the time of application.

Lieut. Cabas, who enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force over two years ago, and who fought both with the British and later with the American forces, to which he transferred after our entry into the war, spoke briefly of his experiences.

Mr. Boyajian's talk was along lines similar to those he gave before the New Castle Kiwanis club earlier in the year.

Other guests of the club included Lieut. (jg) E. Lewis Hough, Charles Ward, Rufus Moses, of Sharon; C. W. Barnhart, A. C. Sprout, of Mercer; and F. P. Baptiste, and Ben Orcutt, of Youngstown, O.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

By Lewis C. Dayton, County Agent

HEAVY RAINFALL HAS CAUSED SOIL LOSSES

Many Lawrence county farmers will remember the spring and summer of 1943 as one of extreme rainfall.

For several weeks field work was virtually impossible. Repeated rains caused soil washing on many of the fields where seed beds were being prepared. Since the crops were in the ground, severe rains in several parts of the county have caused additional washing. Many slopes which previously have caused little trouble, now show signs of soil loss.

Several steps may be taken to prevent additional loss in the future. The use of rye grass—seeded at the last cultivation of corn will do much to reduce loss during the fall and winter and will provide a supply of organic matter to be plowed down next spring. Sod waterways in depressions to provide a channel for carrying off excess water and will prevent washing in these low spots. Contour strip cropping is a third method which proves very effective.

A. F. Arnold of Enon Valley remarked after an extremely heavy rain, that he was glad his friends were in strips with sod to protect the corn fields where he saw the damage which had been done to fields on nearby farms.

Anyone interested in further information on methods of control soil washing should contact the Agricultural Extension Association, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

CONTROL LICE AND MITES TO PROVIDE HEN COMFORT

Lice and mites cause discomfort and decreased vigor of hen in summer. The result is lowered production of eggs. Prompt attention to practices which will destroy these pests will pay big dividends in efficient production.

Since lice live and multiply on the fowl's body, control measures are directed accordingly. A thin strip of nicotine sulphate applied to the perches about a half-hour before roosting time will destroy the lice. Another treatment in 10 days will get the lice which hatched in the meantime.

The heat of the fowl's body on the roost converts the liquid to a gas which penetrates the feathers to destroy the lice. Ample ventilation is necessary to prevent any discomfort to the fowls which may result from too heavy an application of the material and its resultant conversion into gas.

Mites cause restlessness of the fowls on the roosts at night. These pests live in crevices of the roosts, droppings boards, or nearby walls of the hen house. Swarming over the fowls at night they become red with blood sucked from the helpless birds. During the daytime, the presence of mites is easily detected by a salt-and-pepper appearance about the cracks where they hide.

Many poultrymen apply effective control measures when preparing a pen or house for a new lot of fowls. One of the best controls is a good red mite paint or creosote applied with a brush to all parts of the roosts and nearby equipment which may be infested. Often a single application will destroy both mites and their offspring and rid the premises of their presence for as long as a year.

If heavy bodied materials are used as sprays, they should be thinned with equal parts of kerosene. Kerosene and crankcase oil used alone or mixed in equal parts must be applied more frequently than the red mite paint or creosote to be effective.

PROPER COMBINE OPERATION WILL PREVENT LOSS OF GRAIN

The use of combines to harvest grain has increased greatly in Lawrence county and is an effective means of saving labor. The proper use of the combine is essential if the loss of grain is to be avoided.

Grain must not be combined until it is sufficiently dry to store without heating or losses are inevitable. Wheat should be dry enough that kernels placed between the teeth will crack. This indicates a moisture content of about 15 per cent.

Green pods or other material passing through the combine often adds moisture to grain as well as dew which has gathered on the straw. For this reason combines should be operated only after the dew has thoroughly dried in the morning and combines should be taken from the field before the dew falls in the evening.

The tractor should be operated slowly enough that the rack and sieves are not over-loaded. The cylinder spread should be as low as is possible to remove the grain from the heads and the space between the concave and the cylinder should be as great as possible. Too high a cylinder spread and too small clearance will result in the straw being broken up into fine pieces with the result that the sieves become over-loaded and the grain is carried out the back of the machine. Careful attention to the part of the operator to these and other items will result in saving most of the grain which has been produced.

Additional information on combines may be secured by asking for a mimeographed sheet on "Combine Operation" at the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

VENTILATION WILL REDUCE DAMPNESS UNDER BUILDINGS

Plenty of ventilation under buildings will help to protect floors and other wooden parts near the ground from decay, fungi. Ventilators in foundation walls usually are kept closed in winter for fuel economy, but should be open in warm weather.

Many questions have been asked recently about wood decay in houses because of numerous frame houses put up for war workers, as well as other frame structures with wooden floors near the ground.

It should be kept in mind that fungi grow only where the wood is highly moist. The first essential is to see that no wood is in contact with the soil. But for entire safety from such organisms of decay where the soil is moist, there should be openings in the foundation wall, or skirting, through which the moist air can escape.

CURE PEACH DISEASES TO GET CLEAN FRUIT

Scab and brown rot are starting to develop on unprotected orchards in Lawrence county.

To provide loss from these diseases, the fruit should be sprayed three or four weeks before the fruit ripens. Wettable sulphur may be used according to the manufacturer's directions, and is probably the most desirable for Lawrence county conditions.

The fruit, twigs, and leaves should be covered with a fine mist. To avoid spray injury, apply the spray when the temperature is below 85 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade.

DUST OR SPRAY TO SAVE ROSES FROM DISEASES

Dusting or spraying will help to prevent black spot and mildew on roses.

Tests carried on over a period of years at the Pennsylvania State college shows that weekly application of dust containing 80 per cent sulphur and 20 per cent lime or other materials, or a spray, 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture, largely prevents black spot on roses, increasing the number of blossoms per plant, and prevention of disease reduces the likelihood of winter injury.

The spray or dust should be applied to dry foliage.

STRING BEANS IN OUR DIET

Now as never before, the home-maker wants food that is not only good to eat but good for nourishment, too says Mrs. Fred L. Taylor, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county. Fresh snap beans—from truck crop fields or from Victory gardens—supply a fair amount of vitamins A and C, riboflavin, nicotinic acid, calcium, iron, and phosphorus. Vitamin A, you may remember, is the only one the body can store and use at a later time. So eat plenty of snap beans. If you are buying snap beans, keep in mind the 1 1/2 lb. to 2 lb. will serve five or six persons. Snap beans are economical—no peelings, pods, or husks—only the snapped off ends to discard.

How long to cook snap beans—that's a question answered differently according to custom and individual tastes. Here's a way that combines time-saving with vitamin-saving. Shred the beans or cut them into small pieces immediately before cooking and cook until they are tender but still crisp. When cut fine, the snap beans cook very quickly indeed. If cooked in a little water as possible without a cover on the pan, the beans keep their bright green color, flavor, and much of their vitamins and minerals too. This method helps to retain natural color and use of soda is not necessary. Remember that soda destroys essential vitamins supplied by the beans.

Do you cook sufficient vegetables at one time so that you'll have leftovers for another meal? True, you will lose some of the vitamin value by keeping the vegetables a second day, but if you store the vegetables cold and covered, the loss will be small.

Green beans are excellent in a cold cooked vegetable salad and tasty in a soup stew, or vegetable pie.

You can also scallop left-over beans. Make a medium white sauce using the water in which the beans were cooked and drippings of poultry fat or bacon fat, or butter if you have it, and four. Pour the sauce over the beans; add a little seasoning such as curry; sprinkle breadcrumbs on top and bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are brown and the sauce bubbling. For variation, add a little grated cheese. Or heat the beans in the white sauce with a dash of curry and some sour cream beaten into it.

The young tender beans are always good with salt and pepper and melted fat. Occasionally saute chopped onions and mix them with the beans. Stewed tomatoes with green beans and onions are flavorful, too. And if you like a sweet sour taste, melt bacon fat or drippings in a pan, add a little vinegar and sugar, and pour the mixture over the beans just before serving. Remember to use snap beans soon after they are picked. Keep them cool until you are ready to prepare them. Can your surplus.

URGES YOUTHS TO AID WAR EFFORT

Governor Martin Calls Upon Young Pennsylvanians To Extend Efforts

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 14—Gov. Edward Martin today called upon young Pennsylvanians of all ages to reduce their efforts to aid the nation to speed the war effort and hasten the end of the conflict.

In an address highlighting the presentation of a "Liberty Brick" to Pennsylvania schools last night at Harrisburg, the governor emphasized that "each generation by sacrifice, sweat, tears and blood has bought the liberty it represents." The brick was one of the original brought from England to construct Independence Hall at Philadelphia. The governor said: "Give, and encourage others to save, money to buy savings bonds and stamps. You can serve your school, your community and your country by training in first aid, and by learning how to help in all the things that preserve the health of our various communities. You can volunteer for such great activities as the child care centers, the Junior Red Cross, civilian defense, and others.

"You can assist in conserving all kinds of material by collecting scrap, repairing worn clothing, shoes and equipment that can be used. You can encourage every one to waste nothing and to buy wisely. "There is something more that even our younger Pennsylvanians must not forget. It was an axiom of Napoleon that 'wars are won by the sword and the spirit and of the two, the spirit is the greater.'"

"I know we can rely upon the spirit of this commonwealth. The sons and daughters of Pennsylvania did not quit at Valley Forge. Pennsylvanians did not lose hope at the Brandywine. They did not shrink from the supreme agony at Gettysburg or waver in the Meuse-Argonne.

"They will not falter now as our war is shifting from the defensive to the offensive.

"In Pennsylvania we are determined to give the final ounce of energy and the supreme surge of strength from the manpower industries and resources of this commonwealth."

Seamen Crave
Music, Mail

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., July 14—Music and mail—these are the things Navy men want most, according to Charles W. Haller, seaman first class, who has fought the Japanese from Pearl Harbor to the Solomons and back to America.

"It's hard to get any records of music in the South Pacific," Haller said after 21 months at sea. "Records with recent tunes are very rare. Most of them are broken when they arrive because of improper packing."

Haller was on watch on the U. S. S. Nevada when Jap planes attacked Pearl Harbor. The battleship was among the vessels put out of action in the raid.

"For five or ten minutes I just stood and watched them dive at the air field," he recalled. "I didn't know they were Japanese."

"Then some of them hedge-hopped over toward us and I saw red sports on their wings, and I knew it was the real thing."

In the Java Sea battle, sinking Japanese transports was like shooting fish in a barrel, Haller reported.

"I never saw so many transports before in my life. Our destroyers would dash in and put fish into them, withdraw, reload their torpedo tubes and sink some more."

Haller, now an anti-aircraft gunner aboard a cruiser, said "it really gives you a thrill to hit a plane."

"I got one in the South Pacific," he continued. "It seemed to just crumple up and fall apart."

Remember these points when selecting beef, pork or calves' liver—that good quality liver is bright in color and has little odor.

General Giraud Addresses West Point Students

Promises French Co-operation
In Battle Of Pacific Until
Final Victory

By GEORGE HOPPERT
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 14—A promise that soldiers of France would fight beside American troops in the battle of the Pacific was made Tuesday by Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, leader of all French forces in North Africa.

Speaking on the grounds of the U. S. Military Academy here, the tall French leader with bristling mustache hailed the landing of Allied forces in Sicily as another step in a victorious battle against the Axis.

"Yesterday the battle of Tunisia was the first victory, today in Sicily, the British, American and some French troops are winning an even greater victory," he said. "Tomorrow, side by side, they shall liberate Europe."

"But that will not spell final complete victory. A task will remain in the Pacific. I want to assure you that our French troops will be at your side in the Pacific until the final victory is won there also."

He rejoiced that French troops again were in the battle for freedom of his homeland. He spoke with fervor as he stood before the Ecole Polytechnique monument presented by that school to West Point Academy.

"In Tunisia our French troops were given the privilege of resuming the fight for the ultimate liberation of their homeland at the side of your own forces," Giraud said. "Our men were poorly equipped, but the record has shown that they fought in a manner worthy of their predecessors of the last war. Tomorrow, with the material and the weapons that you are giving us, and for which we are deeply grateful, we shall fight even better."

Note on travel, and why we shouldn't. It took 1120 trains—trains, not cars—to move the First Army to African ports.

EXTRA FOOD COUPONS FOR YOU, MADAM .. COMPLIMENTS OF AMERICAN RAILROADS

THANKS to American railroads, you can leave your food ration coupons at home when you go shopping for fresh fruits and vegetables.

Oranges, lemons, grapefruit, melons, cherries, berries, and many other fruits do not require precious ration points.

Potatoes, tomatoes, green beans, peas, cabbage, lettuce, and many other vegetables are point free.

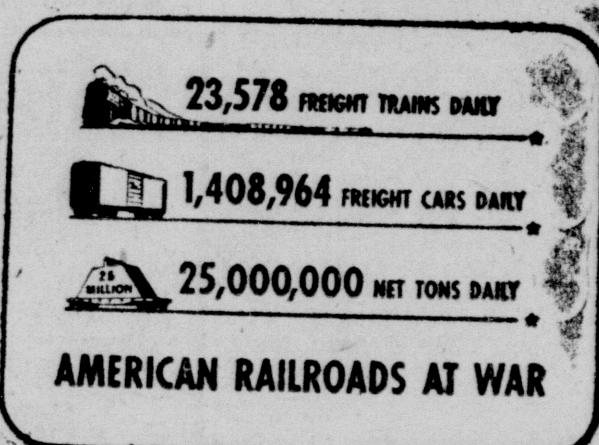

These are brought to your local markets by railroads—often from thousands of miles away.

It is a tremendous job to keep the supplies of foods moving these days when railroad facilities are carrying unprecedented loads of war materials and supplies.

But the Erie and other American railroads are continuing to serve the home front as well as the battle front.

And those extra coupons you have as a result of buying fresh fruits and vegetables are with the compliments of your American railroads.

Try 75 New York Transit Workers For Double Jobs

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 14—Seventy-five transit employees have been tried on charges of neglect as a result of doubling from their own jobs into war plants, it was disclosed Tuesday by the board of transportation.

The men worked on night shifts at neighboring war centers, including the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s shipbuilding yards in Hoboken, according to a spokesman for the board.

Reports of men "falling asleep on the job" and widespread absenteeism led to an investigation that revealed the double lives of the employees, it was learned.

Fifteen of the accused employees resigned when brought before a three-man departmental board, preferring to keep the higher-paid war plant jobs.

Picketing Ends In Coal Sectors

Monongahela Valley Miners Are Scurrying Back To Work In Mines

GRAND JURY PROBE WILL BE STARTED

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 14.—All picketing activity ceased today and striking Monongahela Valley soft coal miners scurried back to work in wholesale lots as the federal grand jury prepared to launch its promised investigation into possible UMW violations of the anti-strike law.

Fewer than 7,000 "die-hards" still remained away from the pits, but with the approach of the government inquiry, scheduled to get under way later in the day, a definite back-to-work sentiment set in and bituminous coal mining once again neared normal in Fayette county, formerly the heart of the insurrection.

At any rate, the roving bands of pickets, which earlier were so successful in exhorting the miners to join the work stoppage, were completely dispersed and no impediments were seen to getting the last group of diggers working again.

Confers With F.B.I.

United States Attorney Charles F. Uhl, who will be in charge of the extraordinary jury when it convenes today, spent the last few days busily conferring with coal operators and law enforcement agents, principally those of the F.B.I. as well as consulting by telephone with the attorney general in Washington.

A staff of federal attorneys familiar with the newly enacted Smith-Connally anti-strike law and the policies of the Department of Justice, accompanied by experts in this type of procedure, are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh early today to assist Uhl.

Opinion was still unanimous that the grand jury investigation was likely to take the turn of a thorough-going expose of United Mine Workers activities, including union policy in connection with the three wartime walkouts in the soft coal mines in the last two months.

Grand Jury Convenes

"The grand jury is convening today," Attorney Uhl declared frankly enough, "to take up matters on inquiry into the interference by individuals in the production from the coal mines now operated by the United States government. The jury will make a report of its findings to the court."

Under provisions of the new statute persons aiding or instigating strikes at government-seized operations, such as the mines, are liable to one year prison terms and fines up to $5,000.

Meantime, steel production perked up considerably at the first sign of the return of the balking miners. All four of the previously closed "captive" mines owned by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation resumed full output, and elsewhere key mines were reopened in rapid order.

In addition, the steel industry received further relief from the paralyzing coal shortage when the Secretary of the Interior, Ickes, government custodian of the mines, ordered 135,000 tons of commercial coal diverted to the steel mills to "relieve the growing paralysis of the steel industry due to coal mine strikes in western Pennsylvania."

WOMEN WORKERS NEEDED IN STATE

Employment Service Says
125,000 More To Be Needed
In Six Months

By TONY ZECCA

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, July 14.—Wives were flatly informed today by state selective service headquarters that they will not be helping their husbands stay out of the armed services by not going to work.

Simultaneously, the U. S. employment service disclosed that 125,000 more women workers will be needed in Pennsylvania industries within the next six months to meet expanding production and fill replacements.

Lt. Col. George H. Hafer, acting state selective service director, declared that in cases of married couples without children or having children born after September 15, 1942 "it doesn't make any difference whether a wife is or is not working."

"The only way her husband could be deferred on that basis would be if the local board determines that extreme hardship and privation would result to the wife in the event of her husband's induction," he said.

H. Raymond Mason, state director of the Federal hiring agency asserted that "we expect that this (Hafer's statement) will have a helpful effect in our efforts to recruit women for war jobs throughout the state."

"Many women have hesitated to accept such jobs because of fear that their increased earning power might render their husband more liable to induction into the armed forces," he said.

He pointed out that Hafer's statement "should now furnish authoritative guidance to such women, making it clear that with the exception of cases where actual privation and hardship will result from the husband's induction, the acceptance of a war job by a registrant's wife will not in any way affect his draft status."

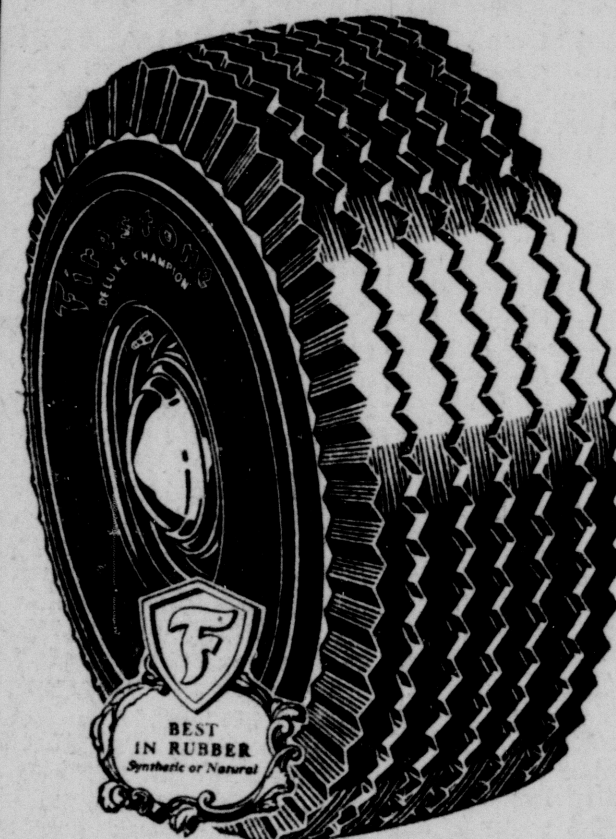

Mason disclosed that a survey of 1170 representative war plants in the state revealed 288,437 women employed, representing approximately 20 per cent of the total employment in those industries.

He estimated that more than 6,000,000 women will be manning production lines to carry on the nation's war machine by the end of the year.

The Bermuda Islands were named for their discoverer, the Spaniard Juan de Bermudez, in 1515.

Greek Destroyer Took Augusta

Only One Man Of Population Of 17,000 Found In Town

By JAMES COOPER
London Daily Express Special Correspondent

Distributed By International News Service

ABOARD AN ALLIED CRUISER
OFF AUGUSTA, July 13.—(Delayed)—A Greek destroyer captured Augusta after a heavy naval bombardment. The town was evacuated and only one man of 17,000 people was found in the city when the first Allies entered.

It was one afternoon's work yesterday for a cruiser squadron patrolling between Syracuse and Augusta.

The navy plastered the hillside town of Medilli, eight miles southwest of Augusta, when the town threatened the west flank of our forces to the south. The roads were bombarded in support of our tanks en route to the town.

Stuka attacks were beaten off—and then came the bombardment and capture of Augusta.

We patrolled outside Augusta with three minesweepers, waiting to go in and prepare the channel for the bigger ships. At 1 o'clock our four-inch guns, pom-poms and machine guns blazed away and four Stukas were shot down as they tried to bomb the cruiser. Spitfires tailed the Stukas, whose bombs fell astern, the nearest 100 yards away, and later one other Stuka was reported afloat.

The next hour was comparatively quiet. Our fighter umbrellas gave us time to bombard enemy positions and watch the tanks trundling through the vineyards north of Syracuse en route to Augusta.

Then came the report of a white flag flying at Cap St. Croce, north of Augusta. A Greek destroyer steamed ashore and put out a boat which was fired on. The Greeks withdrew and every unit in our squadron pounded the battery positions in the town.

It was most accurate shooting I have seen in my 19 months with the navy. The gunnery officer would choose a target; then there would be a flash and a roar like a train going through a tunnel; then the target would be smothered. The batteries were silenced immediately.

Accompanied by two other destroyers, the Greek destroyer returned to the harbor and found only one man (of 17,000 persons) left. Once again a destroyer had captured a Sicilian port, emulating the capture of Pozzallo yesterday.

Says Washington Is Very Evil City

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 14.—Washington, the nation's capital, is a very evil city, indeed, in the opinion of Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, head of the Washington area of the Methodist church, who was in Chicago today attending a meeting of the denomination's Council of Bishops.

Addressing the council, the bishop said: "Drinking and drunkenness in Washington are fearful.

"The consumption of alcoholic beverages, mainly hard liquor, is twice that per capita of any other city in America—even double that of Nevada which is supposed to head the booze parade.

"Nevada can't see Washington for dust when it comes to imbibing. 'Crime and vice run high.'

Alderman Green Is Doing Repeat As Police Judge

Has Served Several Times In City Hall Court In Long Alderman Career

Alderman O. H. P. Green is acting as police court judge in place of Mayor Charles B. Mayne, but this is not his first experience in that role. The venerable "O. H. P. G." who has been an alderman since 1905, has served several times in that capacity, and once for a three-month period.

He served that length of time during the Lou Hainer administration and also served at various times during the reigns of the late mayors, Harry Lusk, A. D. Newell and William H. Gillespie.

As soon as the report circulated that he was to preside over city court, many of his friends appeared in the court lobby to hear him pronounce some of his Solomon decisions.

However, he has not been required to hand down many decisions in police court because apparently those who are apt to commit minor offenses decided to stay out of trouble.

He conducts police court promptly at nine a. m. and traffic court immediately following.

See Indications Axis Preparing To Abandon Sicily

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 13.—Indications that the Axis is preparing to abandon Sicily while Germany is even resigned to Allied occupation of Italy itself were reported today in dispatches reaching London from the continent.

The military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph described German preparations to attempt to jump: Allied occupation of Italy, which they apparently view as inevitable. Italian language pamphlets are being printed in large quantities at The Hague and elsewhere by the Germans, containing instructions for resistance to Allied occupation forces, the writer declared.

These are to be distributed to the Italian population after the Anglo-American forces over-run the Fascist homeland, he added.

Meanwhile, Reuters's News agency reported in a Stockholm dispatch that Swedish correspondents in Rome and Berlin today gave the impression in their articles that both Axis partners are getting ready to abandon Sicily.

Dempseys To Seek Agreement About Children's Custody

(International News Service)
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 14.—Attorneys for Jack Dempsey and his wife, Hannah Williams Dempsey, will confer in private tomorrow with Supreme Court Referee J. Addison Young in an effort to reach an agreement on the custody of the two Dempsey children, Joan, 8, and Barbara, 6.

This was revealed today by Referee Young, who recently granted a divorce to the ex-heavyweight boxing champion, now a lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard. If the conference ends in disagreement, Young said he would set a date for a public hearing.

Horsehoe pitching has become the main sport and recreation along the Mt. Jackson road. Almost every evening the horseshoe artists of various ages gather at Ransom Barris' place to try their prowess, and the competition is keen. Undaunted by the heavy rain of Tuesday evening, the players got some dry dirt to surround the pegs and went into the fray again.

ELKS SEE EARLY WIN OVER ITALY

(International News Service)
BOSTON, July 14.—An early victory over Italy was anticipated by the Elks today.

Dr. Edward J. McCormick, Toledo, O., physician was named to direct the project.

Urge Canadian Gas Rationing System In U. S.

By WILLIAM THEISE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—A ten member congressional committee, determined to fight for modification of the eastern gasoline situation "if it takes all summer" today recommended to mobilization director James F. Byrnes that the Canadian gas rationing system be immediately applied to the United States.

Rep. Hartley (R-N. J.), spokesman for the group, announced that the Capitol Hill delegation also had urged:

1. Reconvening of the Baruch committee to tackle the petroleum situation and eliminate "public confusion from conflicting statements";

2. Immediate extension of gasoline rationing to the Middle West and expanded use of waterways and the barge program to carry needed gasoline.

Hartley said that the Canadian rationing system provides that the motorist, depending on his essential needs, is "told how much gas he can use a year and then he can use it for whatever he wants."

The minimum Canadian allotment, he pointed out, is 144 gallons a year, or about double the present minimum "A card" allocation in the eastern seaboard area.

Gen. Patton Leaped Into Battle When Gela Was Invaded

Takes Personal Command In One Of Fiercest Initial Battles In Sicily

By NOEL MONKS
(London Daily Mail War Correspondent)

(Distributed By International News Service)
ABOARD A DESTROYER OFF GEN. MONTGOMERY'S SICILIAN HEADQUARTERS, July 13.—(Delayed)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, commander of American fighting forces in Sicily, leaped into the surf from a landing boat and, personally taking command, turned the tide in the fiercest initial fighting of the invasion at Gela.

I first heard the story of Gen. Patton's great personal courage and the fighting qualities of his troops on my arrival at Gela aboard this destroyer, which has been acting as official communications destroyer.

The first Yanks to land found two German tank regiments in control of Gela. During the next 24 hours the bitterest fighting of the landing operations occurred. Twice the Germans were driven from the town and twice the Americans were forced back to the beaches.

At this stage of the fight, Gen. Patton waded ashore from a landing barge to take personal command in the battle.

Step by step, the Germans were again driven back from the beaches as waves of Americans landed from the troopships under cover of a British and American bombardment.

STOCKS SURGE HIGHER

Profit Taking Later In Day Cuts Down Some Of Gains

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 14.—In one of the most active sessions of the past two months, the stock market today surged into new high ground, only to run later into profit taking.

Early gains running to more than a point in some of the leaders were reduced to major fractions. The highs were reached in the first hour in a continuation of yesterday's advance. Trading was at the rate of nearly a two-million-share day.

Rails and coppers, strong spots in recent sessions, added to yesterday's gains, but retreated from their highs from the day under the carriers, advancing a point before meeting profit-taking. Aitchison which had been strong in the first hour, had its advance cancelled in late trading. In the coppers, Kennecott was strong with a major fractional gain.

Aviations and steels displayed an irregular trend. Rubbers and foods were higher and the rest of the list steady.

Australian Foreign Minister Evatt's Mission Completed

Believes Japan Will Outlast Germany Only For Short Time

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Dr. Herbert Evatt, Australian minister of foreign affairs, left a White House conference with President Roosevelt Tuesday stating that the objects of his mission to the United States and England have been "fully accomplished."

He plans to return to Australia after a brief visit to Canada. Dr. Evatt declared that Japan can outlast Germany for only a short space of time and declared that there was only one front in the war against the Axis and that is "wherever in the world our enemies may be."

"No doubt the timetable contemplates the fall of Hitler first," Dr. Evatt declared, "but the United Nations believe that by aggressive action against Japan simultaneously—wherever that is possible—that enemy will be deprived of breathing space and breathing time to consolidate."

"If the thing works out in this way—and I believe it will—Japan may outlast Hitler for a very short space of time."

Dr. Evatt, a member of the British war cabinet and of the Pacific war council and recently returned to the United States from Britain.

"I am happy to say that the main object of both these missions (the missions to the U. S. and Britain) has been fully accomplished," he added. "The additional air strength being provided for the Royal Australian Air Force is in line with the announcement made by the president and Mr. Churchill following upon the Washington conference that there be unremitting pressure exerted against Japan throughout the Pacific."

In some way he fell off and was killed. The plaintiff is the daughter of the deceased.

In Montpelier, Ida., near Second street, the defendant was driving a gravel road. New recruits for the drill corps of the Girls' Athletic club received their guns and took part in their first drill practice Tuesday evening at the high school, coached by GAC Director Miss Margaret Fischer. It was announced that all volunteers who are going to work on the football program will meet at the high school on Tuesday, July 20, to plan its publication and sale, which is almost the sole source of funds for maintaining the drill corps.

There will be no more GAC meetings until the first week in August, it was decided, after a two-week vacation was called by the members for the rest of this month.

Parolees Names Are Kept Secret

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 14.—The state parole board does not contemplate making public the names of inmates paroled from the state's penal institutions because "it's not politic and not fair to the men to have them publicized as parolees all over the state," Maj. Henry C. Hill, chairman, emphasized today.

He pointed out that it was the board's policy "not to mention the names of parolees," and added that such was the policy of "the old board we haven't had time to change it, if we're going to."

"District attorneys and judges are notified prior to parole action for comment," Hill said. He stated, however, that he wasn't in a position to disclose whether they were notified of the board's final action.

Hill said that employers were aware if a new employee was a parolee because "the convict must be guaranteed a position before a parole is granted."

Pittsburgh Oil Man Retires As Head Of Turnpike Commission

Walter A. Jones Will Return To Private Business On September 1

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, July 14.—Walter A. Jones, wealthy Pittsburgh oil man and former chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, today was preparing to resign from the agency on September 1.

In a letter of resignation to Gov. Edward Martin, Jones expressed a desire to return to private business. He refused to discuss his resignation from the $5,000-a-year job. Jones was chairman of the commission during the time when the $71,000,000 express highway was being constructed between Irwin and Middlesex, and resigned the post in 1941 due to ill health. He continued to serve as a member at the insistence of former Gov. Arthur H. Jones.

His decision to resign came as a surprise because three days ago he announced his intention of staying "on the job" until plans were drafted for extending the turnpike from border to border. Jones' resignation will leave only one member, T. J. Evans, of coalade, on the three-member commission.

New Reason To Halt Buying At Black Markets

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, July 14.—The state salvage committee today gave Pennsylvanians one more reason for not purchasing black market meats.

Chairman Warren R. Roberts pointed out that illegal slaughtering of livestock results in almost complete loss of the animals' fat content to the war effort.

"Operating in violation of the law as they do," he declared, "stock owners who slaughter for the black markets must bury or otherwise destroy all parts not readily marketable as meat in order to hide the evidence of their unlawful activity."

"Every time a steer or a hog is illegally slaughtered, a tremendous amount of waste fats which ordinarily would be saved and rendered for war purposes is lost," he said. Pennsylvania salvage committees, he pointed out, are engaged in a drive to increase waste fat collections to reach the state's monthly quota of 1,428,500 pounds.

Makes Accusation Against Henry Fonda

Suit Is Filed In Hollywood Against Actor By Young Woman

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—For the second time in as many months Hollywood was buzzing today over a paternity suit filed in superior court against one of the film capital's celebrities, the latest of whom is Henry Fonda, now on duty with Uncle Sam's Navy.

Barbara Thompson brought the action against Actor Fonda. She charged that he is the father of her baby girl, Sharon, who was born last June 21. The suit did not identify Fonda's accuser but merely stated that she and the actor had never been married.

Coming on the heels of a similar charged filed against Comedian Charles Chaplin by his former protegee, Joan Barry, Miss Thompson's action asked $1,000 monthly support for her baby, $5,000 hospital bills, $2,500 court costs and $10,000 for attorney fees.

Fonda, a quartermaster in the navy, is stationed at the navy base at Bremerton, Wash. He was identified in Miss Thompson's suit as "a motion picture actor earning at least $200,000 a year."

Meanwhile Mrs. Frances Fonda, the actor's wife, declared there was nothing to the charge brought by Miss Thompson.

Lippy's Status Will Be Known Sometime Today

Conference On Dodger Book; Prexy Rickey May Oust Fiery Manager

NEW YORK PRESS AGAINST DUROCHER

By JOHN CASHMAN
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 14.—The gravest conference in the embattled career of Brooklyn's Dodger manager Leo Durocher is scheduled to be held today.

Branch Rickey, his boss, is expected to call him in and (1) fire him, (2) accept his resignation, or (3) institute a general reorganization of the "Lip" in a move to preclude a recurrence of the bickering and near-insurrection that rocked the club over the week-end.

Declines To Comment

Rickey has declined to comment in advance on what, if anything is to take place, but that something is brewing in Flatbush was evident when Rickey rushed back from the major league festivities at Philadelphia without even waiting to see the All-Star game.

One published report had it that Durocher definitely is out—by resignation and that a successor for the rest of the season is to be named today, a successor who will be named by ending the rebellion and trying to put the Dodgers back in the pennant race with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rickey already has announced that he will tolerate no more of the nonsense that disrupted the even tenor of the Dodgers' ways last Saturday.

Presumably he means to straighten the matter out now once and for all.

If Rickey does not fire Durocher outright (which appears improbable at this time) he will make Leo tone down. Rickey tried this at the start of the 1943 season, but apparently Leo did not take Brother Rickey's suggestions to heart, for it is Durocher's loud tongue lashings which caused the riot.

Press Against Leo

Whether or not it will take much urging for Rickey to fire Durocher, it is a question best left to prophets. It is evident, however, that there is a strong move afoot in the New York press. Every paper in New York conjectured on Durocher's possible dismissal, and one leading sports page actually demanded that Durocher be tossed out. This reaction stems from the fact that many members of the press here thought their integrity was impugned when Durocher denied their stories.

The result of this press reaction certainly will feature in today's Rickey-Durocher conference. It has brought attention to Durocher's alleged shortcomings in such a fashion as to practically ensure Leo's toning-down.

Portsmouth Hurler Doesn't Give Walk In Sixteen Battles

Irvin Stein Cops 13 Out Of 16 Decisions Due, Mainly, To Control

PORTSMOUTH, July 14.—Irvin Stein, veteran pitcher of the Portsmouth Cubs of the Piedmont league, isn't a scotchman, but some of the Piedmont batters have been suspicious. They have been forced to earn what they get off the delivery of Stein, who is one of the stingiest hurlers in the game when it comes to issuing bases on balls.

Stein hurled 12 consecutive contests in which he did not walk a single batter, and in the first 16 games he pitched this season he issued only four. It's not so hard to understand why he won 13 of those 16 games.

ON RAINY DAY, PLAYERS VISIT MUSEUM OF ART

Nick Cullop, Columbus Manager, Brings New Wrinkle To Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 14.—Grizzled Nick Cullop, manager of the Columbus club of the American Association and veteran of many a major and minor campaign, has introduced a new way to keep his players occupied on rainy days.

The other day in Toledo, a double-header was washed out just 45 minutes before game time. What do you suppose Cullop did? He rounded up his Athletes—veterans and rookies—and took them through a tour of the Toledo Museum of Art. There's nothing quite like cultural inspiration to keep a group of ball players in the right mental frame.

One of the Athletes thought the statue of "Apollo at the Pool" was an umpire calling a runner safe on a close play at the plate.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Remember Red Bender, local high school, Grove City and Western Maryland athlete, who later became a school teacher in Cumberland, Md., mm? A letter from Red, or as he is known in the army, Sergeant W. J. Bender, is in San Diego. He writes that recently he met Andrew Harvan who is in the navy and also Marine Sergeant Tommy Lynch. Sergeant Bender is a radio man aboard a calibration and patrol plane. He is also a former amateur boxer and says he is patiently awaiting a furlough. Here's hoping Red, as we knew him, or the "Sarge" gets the furlough (in time for the July 30 show). If he does, who can tell he may be on the card. He fought for W. M. versus the Midlands and because of his courage was given a pair of boxing gloves by Coach Spike Webb.

Letter arrived today from Pvt. George Haering, former city policeman, who has a brother, Bill, serving in Australia. George is in Det. T. C., at Ft. McDowell, Angel Island, Calif. There are 24 other New Castle boys there. "They certainly beat New Castle," George wrote adding that "I would like to take this opportunity to tell any chronic knockers of New Castle to come out here and they would soon change their attitude." (Sergeant Bender's letter also said Pennsylvania was "tops," too).

EXPERT UMPS

Ball games at Camp Grant (Ill.) will have expert umpiring this season, now that Pvt. Art Pastorella, former American League umpire, is stationed there. Art's assistant will be Cpl. Alex Grodecki, postman for the 17th General Hospital and former minor league umpire.—(Source: Camp McCoy (Wis.). "The Real McCoy").

Sports Ramblings

Sports crumbs collected at random:—

Of all the standout catchers developed around this portion, none, among modern day performers, had as bright a tomorrow as Mike Duffley, affable Johnson-Bronze personnel division member. From his Mahoningtown stamping grounds, Duffley worked his way to the top of independent circles. Then college—the University of Michigan . . .

In the Ann Arbor school colors, "Duff" continued his consistent Cochran-like deeds behind the plate. Before sheepskin time, Duffley's name adorned the note book of many major league scouts. He chose a tryout with the Chicago White Sox in 1930. What happened? "I seemed to have everything in my kit, so I was informed, but a hickory that would rifle hits," the localite offered when pressed for an explanation . . .

Close to a dozen local boxing adherents occupied ring side seats at the Zivich-LaMotta encore. Part of the delegation included: Roger W. Rowland, president of the New Castle Refractories company, Ivor V. Davis, Bernard Hanlon, Edward P. Wish Jimmy L. Stone, Councilmen D. O. Davies, James Gibson and Albert Hoyland, Dan H. Treloar, Patrolman Mike Zerbo, of the State Highway Patrol, Major Guy Wadlinger, and Ben Ciccone, the pro-grade ace . . .

Walt Masterson, Washington's sensational right-hander now in the armed forces, recently hurled his first no-hit no-run game in the Hawaiian league. "Chick" Evans, who has been touring the golf links for 40 years, recently earned his third hole-in-one . . . Washington sources hint that the Army-Navy game may be scratched off the books entirely . . .

HAEGG AGREES TO RUN MILE

Swede Dirt Kicker Shoots For New Mark Against Dodds On Saturday

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Softened up by hours of argument and a file mignon that represented a week's rationing in his own country, Gunder Haegg, the Swedish running machine, promised today he will run the mile Saturday in San Francisco against American ace Gil Dodds.

Besides running against Dodds, Haegg will also be out to smash the mark of 4:02.6 set recently by his countryman, Arne Andersson, who lopped two seconds off Haegg's own time in setting a new world's record.

Andersson's record was established soon after Haegg arrived in the United States, and the Swedish wonder announced that he would have another go at the mark in San Francisco.

Changes His Mind

Last Saturday, Haegg established a new world's record for the two-mile run in 8:53.9 in Los Angeles, breaking the tape 95 yards ahead of Dodds. As he came north to San Francisco, his enthusiasm for the mile event appeared to cool with the weather and he announced flatly he would not run the shorter distance.

Haegg changed his mind at an Olympic club luncheon and declared his reason for doing so was to aid the army benefit fund for which Saturday's meet will be held.

Through an interpreter, Haegg announced:

"Very well, I will run the mile. It is definitely the wrong race for me to run and I would not change my mind for any other reason in the world but to help the army air force cause to the greatest extent."

The Haegg-Dodds race will feature a meet to be held under auspices of the Olympic club at Kezar stadium.

Boxing Benefit Plans Progress

Many Features Planned For July 30 Benefit For Wounded Soldiers

MAKE EFFORT TO SECURE DEMPSEY

Tickets for the benefit boxing carnival, to be staged for the assistance of the Deshon General hospital recreational fund in Butler, will be on sale later this week. It was announced at the meeting of the general committee Tuesday night in The Castleton Hotel.

Scheduled for Friday night, July 30, the committee believes the affair will attract one of the largest crowds of the summer and the larger the crowd, the more money that will be available to the hospital where wounded veterans are being cared for.

In addition to the boxing bouts, of which there will be eight, some added attractions will be seen. The ladies' chorus of the Standard Steel Spring Company will be heard in several numbers directed by William Richards.

An effort is being made to get Lt. Comdr. Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, to come to New Castle and referee one of the bouts. No definite word has been received yet in the matter but it is hoped he will agree to the Coast Guard authorities in New York City.

Prices will range from $1 to $1.65 and in addition there are special patron tickets which will cost $10 each and entitle the holder to a ring side seat. It is hoped to raise sufficient money to pay all incidental expenses out of the sale of patron's tickets and thus turn over all receipts of other ticket sales to Col. C. J. Gentzkow, commanding officer of the Deshon hospital.

Committee chairmen were heard in reports Tuesday night and apparently the plans are being worked out satisfactorily. The Jefferson A. C. is supplying the boxers for the carnival, sixteen of them. There will be eight bouts of three rounds each and the athletic club is engaging the best amateur talent available.

The boxing bouts will be worth the money but the primary object to lighten the load of a bunch of back of the affair is to raise money youngsters who have just been returned from the various theatres of war after being wounded. The ticket sale should be large.

Mort Cooper Shelled Before 31,938 Fans; Vince DiMaggio Stars

Bobby Doerr's Three-Run Homer Proves Cooper's Undoing; Pirate Star Whacks Homer, Triple And Single; "Dutch" Leonard Winning Pitcher; National First Inning Lead Wiped Out In Second; Keltner, Wakefield Hit Successive Doubles.

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The most bitterly frustrated big-timer in baseball today is Morton Cecil Cooper, of Webster Groves, Mo., the beloved "cousin" of the American Leaguers who knocked him daffy last night for the fourth straight time in a year's stretch between All-Star games. The 5 to 3 defeat suffered by the Nationals here under the Shibe Park lights was decisive far beyond that margin of only two runs.

In his 18 1-3 innings against American Leaguers he earned run average is an unbelievable 8.00, for last season in the National League it was 1.77.

Doerr Attacks
What happened to him last night was a sudden attack of Bobby Doerr, second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, armed with a bat in the second inning.

The Nationals had nipped Dutch Leonard, Washington knuckleballer and the winning pitcher, for a first inning run on singles by Stan Hack, Cubs third baseman, and Billy Herman, Dodger second baseman, followed by a run-producing fly by Stan Musial, Cardinal outfielder.

Leonard held the Nationals in the second and Cooper got his lumps in the under side of that frame when Doerr blasted a curve into the left field stands with Chet Laabs, Browns' outfielder, and Jake Early, Senator catcher, on base as a result of walks.

Mort Is Kayoed
That was it. The National never caught up, and never really came close to the rest of the way, and Cooper was driven off the mound

FUND RECEIPTS TOTAL $115,174

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The All-Star game sent $115,174 tinkling on its way to buy baseball equipment for service men, final totals on receipts revealed today.

Paid admissions, totaled $65,174, with radio rights, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' office, and major league clubs supplying the rest.

In the third when Keltner and Dick Wakefield, Tiger rookie outfielder hit successive doubles for another run.

Southworth had the unpleasant duty of going out and taking his own big pitcher out of the game and in came Johnny Vander Meer, the Cincinnati southpaw with the rifleball. He struck out pinch-hitter Rudy York and Laabs to end that, and made it three strikeouts in a row by getting Early in the next frame.

But by this time the game really was over and every-one in the crowd of 31,938 knew it and could hope only for incidental thrills the rest of the way. The demise of Cooper was the demise of the Nationals' chances, and they were beaten for the eighth time in eleven All-Star starts.

MAJOR LEAGUE OFFICIALS MEET

New Jersey Fire Department Has Gas For One Fire

Fire Chief Gets Tangled Up In OPA Red Tape, Can Get No More Gas

(International News Service)
DEMAREST, N. J., July 14.—There's only enough gasoline in the fire trucks of Demarest for "one good fire" and how and when the town will get more is anybody's guess.

That was the situation as disclosed Tuesday by Harry P. Tate, chairman of the Demarest public safety committee, who told how OPA red tape had gotten everything pretty much tangled up.

A few weeks ago Fire Chief Arthur W. Griffin filled out all the necessary forms to get gas he needed for the fire trucks, but was told at his local ration board that he would have to get the department's certificates of necessity increased.

Tate filled out form 05-R090 on July 1. He was told to wait for an examiner. After waiting four hours, Tate left and wrote a letter explaining the dangerously low supply of the Demarest Volunteer Fire Association.

In return he received a mimeographed answer telling him he must "present this form in person with all operating records," etc.

He wrote back: "Having wasted the day of July 1 at the office in Newark, which caused me to put my request in writing, please be advised that there is no one who can or will waste any more time in making my personal appearances. That data requested by your office is red tape carried to a ridiculous extreme."

FREE MATINEE IN BRASS DRIVE

Youngsters Who Bring In Two Pounds Of Scrap Will Be Honored Saturday

Continuing the nation-wide motion picture campaign for brass, copper and bronze scrap, it was announced today by Manager Speer Marousis of the Regent theater that another free matinee for kiddies who gather two pounds of copper, brass or bronze scrap will take place Saturday morning at 10:15 a. m.

Last week kiddies were given a free matinee by the Penn theater in the opening phase of the drive for vitally needed war materials, and a nice amount of these valuable metals was secured.

The picture and use of the theater is furnished free of charge by the management, and the feature in this show will be Roy Rogers in "Bad Man of Deadwood", in addition to comedies and cartoons, making a two-hour show. The operators, members of the local union, also give their time in this cause.

The Elks Junior Commandos, under the leadership of Col. Katherine Christoffer, will take the scrap collected to a local junk yard after the matinee, and the proceeds received from its sale will be used in purchasing needed equipment for the children's wards of the New Castle and Jameson Memorial hospitals.

To Drive Japs Out Of Malay States

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 14.—A forthcoming Anglo-American offensive to drive the Japanese out of the Malay states region and other Asiatic areas was indicated today by foreign secretary Anthony Eden. The British government does not recognize transfers of conquered territories by the Axis powers, Eden told the House of Commons.

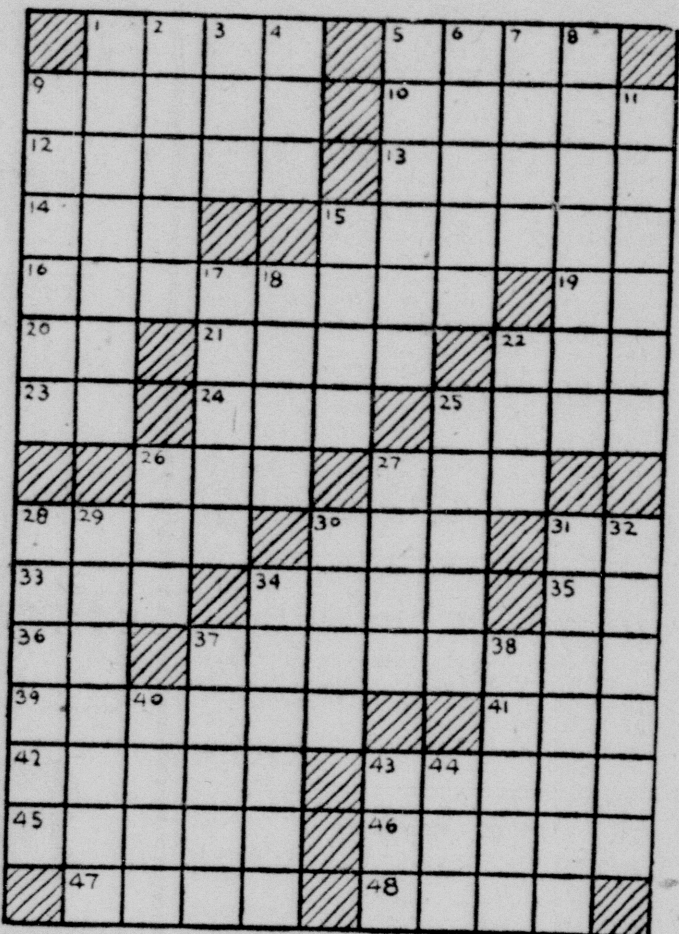

Eden's statement was made in reply to a member of Commons who called attention to Japan's action in ceding four Malay states to Siam. The dapper foreign secretary replied:

"I need hardly say his Majesty's government do not recognize the transfers... nor regard them as anyway permanent since it is the fixed intention of ourselves and our Allies to drive the Japanese from these regions."

Youthful Game Is Near Tragedy For Pittsburgh Lads

Boy Wounds Pal In Accidental Shooting; Victim Begs Friend's Release

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 14.—A youthful game today brought near tragedy to two bosom friends of nearby Broughton.

Paul Luznar, 13, was wounded in the abdomen when his pal, James Leach, 16, accidentally shot him with a .25-caliber Spanish-type revolver he didn't know was loaded.

The Luznar boy was immediately taken to Southside hospital where it was reported he would recover and the Leach boy was interrogated by detectives.

Questioning revealed that the gun was owned by Henry Leach, James' father, who had recently loaded the ancient firearm without informing his son.

Young Leach found the revolver in the cellar of his home and playfully pointed it at Paul with whom he was playing. Before undergoing an operation to remove the bullet, the Luznar lad begged police to release his friend. His request was granted.

Jones Engineering Plant Is Closed

ELLWOOD CITY, July 14.—The Jones Engineering company, manufacturers of grinders and other war goods, was shut down last Tuesday afternoon, after some 25 employees formed a local union and demanded a wage contract, according to Benjamin Phillips, C.I.O. United Steel
Worker organizer.

Phillips said he would file a complaint against the company with the N.L.R.B. charging a "lockout and unfair labor practices".

Written notice of desire for a contract was given the plant owner and president, Donald S. Jones, on Saturday. Phillips said, His answer was a bulletin-board announcement which read "Due to lack of orders and inability to get material, this plant will shut down until July 13, at 4:30 p. m. Your check and release will be ready for you in the office".

Jones, who organized the company five years ago, would say only that "organization of the union has nothing to do with the shutdown".

Employing approximately forty men,
the plant has been working 45 hours a week for the past nine months, it is reported.

Observations In Australia

Cohn Gives A Few Ideas
Gleaned In Month In Australia

By ART COHN
War Correspondent International
News Service
SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, July 14.—Dear
Boss:

This column is a month old today so I baked a cake. Here are a few crumbs...

Most sensible sign seen in Australia, displayed in a Sydney elevator: "We would ask the gentlemen to keep their hats on in lifts. This will tend to reduce congestion during busy periods and so contribute to the greater comfort and convenience of all." U. S. elevators please copy.

Most important discovery of the month: Australian ski local whiskey is almost good enough to drink if taken in milk with sugar.
Dehydrated lesson in politics by a Brisbane cab driver who looked and talked like Gregory Ratoff: "We hov too many governments. Een Roshya we hov 220 meelun people and one government. Een America you hov 139 meelun people and one government. Een Hostralya we hov seven meelun people and savin governments. We cont gat monye from one state to another all because we hov too many governments."

Second most important discovery of the month: A straight doesn't beat a flush.

Fastest answer by a barkeep when I asked for 114-proof rum neat:
"Better have your dog tags on,
Yank."

Best crack born in press headquarters: Never before in history have so many commanded so few.

How to make a million dollars

before Christmas: Bring three white women and a boatload of Scotch to New Guinea.

Saddest discovery: All Australian meat tastes like mutton because it's cooked in mutton grease.

Sign in Townsville store window:
"When buying a bus or tram wait on kerb and wave a newspaper or handkerchief." Quite a sight for Hollywood and vine, no?

Two-word reason why American soldiers have become tea addicts:
Australia coffee.

Third most important discovery of the month: A flush doesn't beat of a kind.

Unanimous nomination for most unpopular man in U. S.: John L.
Lewis.

Critique: Australian women have pretty faces but someone should tell them to shave the hair on their legs.

Yours,
A. C.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers
Are Outlined Here

Judging from the notices from the OCD, city hall, group leaders are not hurrying to secure equipment to which their group is entitled.
Auxiliary fire equipment, helmets, stirrup pumps and gas masks (for those entitled to them) may be secured.

New class in First aid will begin night. Any person who belongs to the OCD or one who desires to join who has not had this training may attend. Herbert Rodgers and Jane L.

Cochran are the instructors.

Auxiliary Fire company No. 5 met with practically all members present. Among these were some who are at home on furlough from armed service. A tasty lunch followed the meeting. It was pointed out that the group has been using the new pumper to become familiar with it.
The pumper is taken several evenings each week to the Big Run. All members are asked to attend some of these in instructive demonstrations. The group will meet again in
No. 5 engine house for a refresher course Monday.

Wardens Post 3-2 will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday at Chapman's dairy. Stirrup pumps are to be present.

5, New Castle, has been transferred from Fort Stevens, Ore., to the coast artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va.

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks purple.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up".

Grain And Feed Are Lost In Fire

Blaze Destroys Altman Feed
Company Mill At Irwin,
Pa., Today

(International News Service)

IRWIN, Pa., July 14.—A half-million dollar fire swept the Altman Feed Company mill today, destroying thousands of bushels of grain and tons of feed.

About 150 employees were forced to flee to the street when the blaze enveloped the second floor of the main granary and quickly spread to the hatchery and adjacent warehouse.

Clair Altman, co-owner of the mill which supplies 75 company feed stores in Western Pennsylvania,
West Virginia and Ohio, said
prompt appearance of fire companies from nearby communities saved a large apartment house and several mill buildings from going up in flames.

He disclosed, however, that a dozen utility poles and three loaded freight cars were totally demolished by the fire.

Ten volunteer fire companies from Irwin, Greensburg, Hermine and Jeannette sped to the scene.
One volunteer, Charles McNally, of Irwin, suffered burns of the right hand and was treated at Westmoreland hospital.

Two others, Robert Zono, 22, of Larimer, and Calvin Carter, 43, of Irwin, were overcome by smoke but were quickly revived.

Origin of the fire was not immediately known but an investigation was launched on the spot.
